

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 19 years old. My friend is some years older, but we are not engaged yet.

(1)—Would it be proper for me to meet him when he comes to town, he living in another state and being a stranger here?

(2)—When he tells me he will come such and such a time, should I just write him that I will be glad to see him at any time?

(3)—Would it be proper for him to stay at our house or at a hotel?

ANSWERS.
(1)—If accompanied by an older member of your family it is permissible. (2)—It would be better to do this than to meet him. He should call on you at his earliest opportunity. (3)—At the hotel.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—I am a girl of 16 and going with a fellow of 22. I think a great deal of him. He says he thinks the world and all of me. He has proposed to me. Will it be proper for me to accept him? (2)—Should I let him make love to me? (3)—Is it proper for a young girl to have a nickname, such as "Peanuts"? If not, why?

PEANUTS.
(1)—You are too young to be engaged, my dear. Tell him if he thinks the same of you in two years you will be ready then to consider a marriage proposal. (2)—No, indeed. (3)—There is no harm in it, but it is not very dignified for a girl who will soon be a young lady.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a young man for several years and he seems to care lots for me, but we are cousins. Would it be wrong to marry? I am 25. He is a few years my senior and it seems we can't part. Some have intimated we may not be happy, but would you think our relationship would mar our happiness? I know others that were related and married and who live happily. What do you think?

EXPERIENCE.
Most of the states have laws forbidding the marriage of first cousins. While some first cousins have married and lived happily together, it usually happens that their children must suffer because of the relationship. Personally, I have known of cases where the children were idiotic. Would you want this to happen to your children?

I cannot say whether it would be wrong or not for you to marry, but those who make our laws are wise men and it is well to be guided by their opinion in such a matter as this.

FRANCY.
Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am working for a family here in town and some of the boys I know are sending me some terrible cards. Has anybody a right to slander me through the mail? If the people I am working for get hold of any of these cards they will discharge me. What can I do?

Take the cards to your postmaster and tell him whom you suspect. There is a heavy penalty for sending such matter through the mails.

YOUNG PEOPLE IN CHURCHES UNITE

Presbyterian Organizations Plans Charitable Work Covering the City.

WILL HELP AT CHRISTMAS

Meeting to Be Held at Broadway Soon After the First of the Year to Perfect Plans.

Young people of the Presbyterian churches of the city are leading a new philanthropic movement which promises to hereafter do a great deal toward a more general enjoyment of Christmas cheer in the city. Four societies from the Broadway, Central and South Park Presbyterian and the United Presbyterian churches are involved.

These organizations have this year separately taken up the work of helping provide for needy families and so much enthusiasm has been shown that it is now proposed to form an alliance among them with the object of broadening the scope next year.

LITTLE MACHINERY NEEDED.
The plan is to form a social service department of these societies which can be handled in committees involving very little machinery. These committees, comprising the social service department of the Presbyterian young people's societies will work in connection with Secretary Wirt Taylor, of the Associated Charities, in carrying out not only in food and financial assistance, but in social and religious matters, to those who are in need.

A meeting is to be held soon after the first of the year at Broadway church, at which the plans will be completed and the united work inaugurated. There is great need in the city for just such a practical piece of Christian service as this and it is possible that in the course of time a general city union of all young people's societies may be worked out to cooperate.

The Madonna

By WALTON WILLIAMS
Copyright, 1912, by American Press Association.

WITH the painters of the middle ages the Madonna was the most popular subject. This was especially true of that supreme great school that flourished during the Italian renaissance period. In earlier Christian art the Virgin did not so largely figure. It was only with the council of Ephesus and its glorification of Mary as the "mother of God" and the development of the doctrine of the immaculate conception—not only as to the birth of Jesus, but as to that of Mary herself—that the ascendancy of the Virgin both in the church and in church art was established.

It was not till the wonderful renaissance era in Italy, the golden age of art, however, that the Madonna became the favorite theme of painters. The vogue started with Fra Angelico, Fra Bartolommeo and others of the first painters of the era and reached its height under Raphael. The three great figures of the renaissance period in art were Raphael himself, Michelangelo and Leonardo da Vinci. Angelo painted a few Madonnas, some of them unfinished, but they do not rank with most of his work. Da Vinci has one or two Madonnas that are up to his other great paintings. But it was Raphael of angelic face and character; Raphael, the prince of painters of all ages, whose Madonnas, both in number and quality, outranked those of any other painter, ancient or modern.

Raphael's "Sistine Madonna" is not only his own masterpiece, but by universal consent ranks as the greatest painting in the world. Only less famous than this is his "Madonna of the Chair," while his "La Jovina," "Madonna of the Finger" and many more are celebrated.

Raphael Sanzio or Santi was born in 1483 and died of a fever at Rome when thirty-seven. He was the son of a painter and studied at one time under Perugino. His first work to become famous was "The Coronation of the Virgin," which appeared in 1503. "The Marriage of the Virgin" was painted the next year, shortly after which Raphael went to live in Florence, where most of his Madonnas were finished. His fame had now become so great that he was called to Rome to decorate the Vatican. It was not till toward the end of his life that Raphael developed his own style and did his greatest work, the "Sistine Madonna" being his last great painting. He was also an architect and was appointed the chief architect of St. Peter's in Rome.

Another Madonna, a reproduction of which is here shown, is a detail of the painting by Hans Holbein the younger, known as the "Madonna of the Meyer Family." It represents the Virgin and the child Jesus being worshipped by Burgomaster Meyer, his two wives (one deceased) and some of his children. Just why Burgomaster Meyer, his two wives and children should be immortalized in this holy company is not apparent. The burgomaster paid for the picture. Members of the family are omitted in the reproduction.

There were two Hans Holbeins, father and son, both painters. The younger was practically a contemporary of Raphael, being born in Bavaria in 1467. One of his best known portraits is that of Erasmus. Several of his religious pictures are also celebrated.

CHRISTMAS WILL BE THE "BIGGEST"

Unprecedented Buying This Year Indicates Profusion of Presents.

SANTA DUE HERE TONIGHT

Good Weather Promised to Go Along With Good Cheer—Feast for County Prisoners.

Tonight Santa Claus, traveling by reindeer, auto or otherwise, will pay his annual visit to good little girls and boys; tomorrow we will celebrate Christmas, and the next day we will be glad it is over for a year.

Judging by the unprecedented buying that has been done in Rock Island during this holiday season, there should be rather a "bigger" Christmas here than ever before. There should be more presents given and more of the seasonable delicacies on the table of the average family.

The weather bureau promises something out of the usual for its Christmas line, despite a rather dubious augury from Washington earlier in the week. On the whole, everybody who has it in him to be happy should be able to do so.

Tomorrow will be observed in the usual manner, with business suspended, services in churches, family parties, etc.

FEAST AT JAIL.
Christmas day will be a merry one for the prisoners at the county jail. The sheriff's deputies have decided to make the occasion a memorable one for those who are so unfortunate as to be behind the bars on the big holiday of the year. A feast will be served, which will equal that of numerous large hotels in the city. There will be an absence of lace doilies, finger bowls, damask, cut glass and American beauty roses on the tables, but the viands will be the good, old-fashioned kind which mother used to make. The following menu will be brought into play tomorrow noon: Roast chicken with dressing, mashed potatoes with brown gravy, cranberry sauce, celery, pumpkin pie, and coffee with real cream.
